

POSSIBLE WRONGFUL DEATH CLAIMS AS SIX ARE LEFT DEAD FROM TENNESSE CAR SHOW ACCIDENT

Everyone loves a good outdoor event to get the summer fun flowing. However, no one wants a catastrophe like the Tennessee 'Cars for Kids' car show that resulted in six dead and several injured. This is a prime example of a possible WRONGFUL DEATH claim.

We have devoted a portion of daryldixonlaw.com to educating not only our clients, but the general public about terms such as WRONGFUL DEATH. We believe that education is the strongest, and most ethically sound, form of advertising. If the public is made aware of their rights and privileges, then they will seek out their educator in their time of need. For a quick summary of WRONGFUL DEATH claims, what they mean, and how they are handled; please visit:

http://www.daryldixonlaw.com/practice_areas/wrongful-death-claims2.cfm

When people attend events such as these, the last thing they worry about is their safety. People naturally assume that they are protected from negligent acts that would put their safety, and their lives, in danger. Had it not been for the negligent acts of the driver, those six people would still be alive and well with their families. But who is to blame?

This is a question that Daryl T. Dixon can answer. Mr. Dixon is not only a KENTUCKY CAR ACCIDENT and MEDICAL MALPRACTICE ATTORNEY; he is also experienced in WRONGFUL DEATH claims as well. Mr. Dixon knows who is responsible for disasters such as these, and is more than zealous in his approach to make sure the families who have suffered loss are compensated for the WRONGFUL DEATH of a loved one.