As an attorney who has handled wrongful death cases involving children, I am fully aware of the rage a family must feel when their loss is exploited by someone like John Snow. Mr. Snow was a Hickman County ambulance driver and EMT. However, due to the recent discovery of his ‘hobby’, he has been fired from his position as ambulance driver, and risks losing his paramedics license.

Mr. Snow’s hobby consisted of photographing wounded, and even deceased, patients he would encounter in his profession. John Snow was recently confronted by a father whose son had not only been killed in an accident, but also been photographed by Mr. Snow. Some of Mr. Snow’s photographs have been posted to his MySpace.com page, giving him an even larger audience to view his sick obsession.

After my speaking out against the unethical practices of the ‘ambulance chasers’, I have decided to become something of an ethical watchdog for the citizens of Kentucky. Some may wonder what measures a Kentucky Accident Attorney can take against those who prey on the innocence and misfortunes of others. This article is an answer to that question. I can fight the injustice of these unethical scavengers by educating Kentucky, and the world, that they exist. I have the power to speak out against these depraved individuals, and caution people to their ways. If no one stands up against people like John Snow and the ambulance chasers, then they have no reason to stop their unethical and devious behavior. I feel it is my duty as a Kentucky Accident Attorney, and a protector of rights for the citizens of Kentucky, to let it be known that this type of behavior is unacceptable and will not be tolerated.

Please join me in battling those who insist on taking advantage of others through unethical behavior. Below you will find a link to two video clips. The first is the WPSD news report of Snow being fired; the second is the story of the father who confronted John Snow.
